

Opinions of Distinguished Business Men.
I have always considered advertising liberally and long to be the great medium of success in business, and the prelude to wealth. And I have made it an invariable rule, too, to advertise in the fullest terms, a long experience having taught me that money thus spent well laid out, as by keeping my business continually before the public, has secured me many sales that I otherwise would have lost.
—Stephen Girard.

"I have seen many I may have had in business, but I have never seen one who has made it over mainly to continuous advertising, and I deem it good policy to advertise long in the same paper. From a close observation, I am fully convinced that it is impossible to make much headway in any branch of commerce, without the facilities which the Press alone can give."
—Jacob Kidney.

"We are in receipt of almost daily packages of New Orleans papers from A. A. Watkins, for which we are obliged."

"The Courier, Grey Eagle, J. J. Cidot, and Ohio No. 2 have been attentive to our wants for the last week."

"The H. D. Moore has been withdrawn from the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati trade and placed in the Vicksburg and Memphis line. She will prosper anywhere."

"The meeting appointed for this evening, at the Court-House, in order that union and harmony may be preserved in the election of officers at the Township election Monday next. And, by all means turn out to the election."

Howard Association, Philadelphia.
Few public institutions have, for a long series of years, enjoyed a more widely spread and uninterrupted reputation for usefulness and honorable conduct, than that whose name heads this paragraph. The "Howard Association" does credit to the name which it bears.

ANOTHER VICTIM.
On Tuesday last a gentleman by the name of G. W. Eldridge, accompanied by his sister, a delicate girl about sixteen years of age, came off a steamboat at our place, who had not the means to take them to their destination. They claimed to be exiles from Pike county, Ky., from where they were driven by the mob, and were on their way to some relatives, near Pittsburgh. Their story was plain, and from the appearance of Mr. Eldridge, no one for a moment could believe it a ruse by which to obtain assistance.

He was given but a few hours to leave or suffer the vengeance of an infuriated mob, with whom he had no sympathy, who had taken offense at opinions which he had expressed from him.

He left in the care of his father, (who is a pro-slavery man) two children, whom he was unable to bring with him. He was a member of the M. E. Church, and a class leader. He gives as his former address in Kentucky, Louisville, mouth of Pon, Pike county.

We will not enlarge upon the statement of Mr. Eldridge, as we have no proof of his story other than his apparently honest manner of telling it, and a generous and noble feeling toward his persecutors. His story, in the main, we believe to be true, and furnishes another illustration of the determination to drive from the land of darkness all vestiges of light and civilization.

At the Court-House, in Pomeroy, on Tuesday evening, 27th inst. There will be a meeting of the citizens of Salisbury Township, for the purpose of forming a Republican Club, and also arranging a ticket for Township officers, to be supported at the coming election.

A CARD.

SALISBURY, Tr. March 24th, 1860.
In reply to the repeated inquiries of Thos. Radford and others, to know if I would serve, if elected to the office of Justice of the Peace, I have to say in reply to all concerned, that I am not an office-seeker, in fact, I have an absolute repugnance to office-seeking, but as I am a popular sovereignty man, in the true sense of the word, and holding the views that I do of the duties of every American citizen to serve his country to the best of his ability, in any capacity he may be chosen by the sovereign people, I could not, therefore, if elected to that office (with consistency), disregard the wishes of the people and refuse them the benefit of the little ability I possess.
Respectfully,
J. V. STEVENS.

MARRIED.
On the 22d inst., by Rev. S. M. Bright, Mr. N. R. Nye and Miss Lizzie Dowers, both of this place.

The young and happy couple have our sincere thanks for their doubly-bountiful nuptial repast. The untroubled waters of the river of life press open the flood-gate of love, and pour torrents of peace, contentment, fidelity and happiness upon the abode of time, and keep in harmony the domestic machinery, till the grey-haired miller and his bride are called upon to give a final account of their stewardship, and resign the positions they have faithfully filled.

DIED.
In Pomeroy, at the residence of his father, March 16th, JAMES G. DANIEL, in the 23rd year of his age.

Mr. Daniel was born in Wilkesville, Ohio, Sept. 28th, 1837, and was the eldest son of H. G. and Eliza W. Daniel. After pursuing the usual preparatory studies, he entered, at a somewhat early age, Marietta College, where he graduated in 1854. Instead of selecting one of the professions, as so many of our young men do, on leaving College, Mr. Daniel embarked in business, and had, he lived, would no doubt have succeeded as a business man. An insidious disease, however, soon blasted his worldly prospects, by removing him from active life, and admonishing him that all intercourse with earth and earthly affairs must speedily terminate.

A few months previous to his death, he was seized with hemorrhage of the lungs, which caused his confinement within doors, and which was soon followed by other symptoms equally alarming to his friends and disheartening to himself.

During the latter part of his illness his mind was turned to survey his spiritual condition; and realizing that he needed the Savior, he at once, with characteristic energy, sought for Him, and by the blessing of God he found Him. Peace came to his soul, and he was made a new creature in Christ Jesus. Seldom in this world has there been a more striking exhibition of faith in the Redeemer of sinners, than that of young man evinced after surrendering himself to the demands of his Master. "I have given myself to Jesus," was his language, on different occasions, "and I know he will save me!"

His Christian life, brief as it was, and despite the physical infirmities he experienced, was truly a life of faith unalloyed with distrust, and of patience unmarked by murmuring.

The ministers do not sorrow as those who have no hope, for his last end was that of the righteous—his last words a prayer for those who would gather around the family hearthstone when he should be gone from the circle.

"Thou art gone to the grave; but we will not deplore thee. Since thou was thy ransom, thy guardian, thy guide, thy comforter, and he will restore thee, and death hath no sting, since the Savior hath died."

FUNERAL OF GOV. BISSILL.
SPRINGFIELD, ILL., March 21.—The funeral ceremonies of Hon. W. H. Bissell, late Governor of Illinois, took place to-day. The attendance at the funeral was very large. The military display was very fine, never made in the State. The remains were interred with the services of the Roman Catholic Church, and the ceremonies throughout were of the most imposing character. Lieut. Gov. Wood was formally inaugurated Governor at five o'clock this afternoon.

Made the Connection.
The last rail of the connection between the Baltimore and Ohio, and Marietta and Cincinnati Railroads was laid at B. & O. opposite Parkersburg, last Thursday. Nothing but a short and convenient ferry by steamboat now separates Cincinnati from Baltimore.

New Cemetery.
Spartanburg, O., are in circulation. They are thus described: "Vignette, five gold dollars, three cupids; Indian princess on left and hunter on right of vignette; female portrait on right end."

It appears from official returns in the Almanac of 1860, which has just appeared at Rome, that the number of Roman Catholic Bishops in the world amounts to 850, exclusive of 90 apostolic vicarships and several prelaties.

The telegraph wire from St. Louis to San Francisco is now within two hundred and eighty miles of the latter place. It will be laid all night, when we shall hear from California every day.
